“Winners” For 2011

Not necessarily new plants but definitely our favourites!

ANGELONIA - Pink, purple or white. Very easy to grow. Excellent in hot, dry conditions. Use as cut flower, in garden beds and small containers. Accepts very dry soil. Height: 10-14". Sun.

They say...& we agree! AngelMist Angelonia displays orchid-like flowers on lush plants. No need to prune or deadhead. Hardy until frost.

BEGONIA DRAGONWING - Exotic plants boast loose clusters of red or pink bell-like blooms. Glossy, dark green, wing-shaped leaves frame the flowers. Tolerate heat and thrive in partial to full shade or filtered sun. Easy to grow and virtually carefree.

They say...& we agree! Place these bold beauties in pots, baskets and beds and watch them fill in fast to form lush garden beds that last up to the first frost. Use as the focus of stunning mixed or solo containers and hanging baskets. Combine well with Super Elfin Impatiens

CALIBRACHOA MINI FAMOUS - Royal blue, red, white, pink or coral. Blooms from spring to fall. Semi-trailing. Best in fertile, well-drained soil. Water as needed to keep soil evenly moist especially in heat. Height: 6"/trailing 40". Sun or part shade.

They say...& we agree! Abundance of brightly coloured blooms all season long. Easy to grow. Replaces some Superbells. Better performers.

CALIBRACHOA SUPERBELLS - Dreamsicles (orange). Abundant, small petunia-like flowers all season on cascading growth. No deadheading. Height: 7-10", trailing. Full sun.

They say...& we agree! Calibrachoa don't like constantly damp soil. Do well in the ground only with good drainage. For most gardeners, containers are best. If plant is wilting in damp soil, you may have root rot problem.

CLEOME SENORITA ROSALITA - Lavender/pink. Heat and drought tolerant. Adds dramatic height to landscape beds. Flowers all summer. Height: 24-48". Full sun.

They say...& we agree! Best Cleome yet! Outflowers the competition. Doesn't set seeds. No deadheading, no thorns.

COLEUS HENNA - Mounded, upright. Heat & shade tolerant. Low maintenance. Colorful, attractive foliage. Height: 18-24". Sun or shade.

They say...& we agree! Unique chartreuse to copper color complimented by dark burgundy undersides with serrated foliage.

COLEUS MINT MOCHA - Mounded, upright. Heat & shade tolerant. Low maintenance. Colourful, attractive foliage. Height: 18-24". Sun or shade.

They say...& we agree! Multi-colour green leaves with mottled yellow and red flecks. Ducksfoot-type foliage.
